Description of Defect:

Description of the Defect: Some vehicles may experience front airbag, side curtain airbag, and seatbelt pretensioner inadvertent deployments.
Description of the Safety Risk: Airbags that unexpectedly deploy increase the possibility of a crash and risk of injury.
Description of the Cause: The inadvertent airbag deployments are the result of an electrical over-stress to one of two Application Specific Integrated Circuits that control the airbag squibs. The cause of the electrical over-stress has yet to be determined and is actively under investigation.
Identification of Any Warning that can Occur: Customer complaints have indicated, in many instances, that the airbag warning lamp and/or chime are activated shortly before an inadvertent airbag deployment.

Chronology:

Please see attached supplemental information titled "Chrysler Group LLC Chronology R06".

Description of Remedy:

Description of Remedy Program: Chrysler will replace the ORC module software, free of charge. Chrysler has a longstanding policy and practice of reimbursing owners who have incurred the cost of repairing a problem that subsequently becomes the subject of a field action. To ensure consistency, Chrysler, as part of the owner letter, will request that customers send the original receipt and/or other adequate proof of payment to the company for confirmation of the expense.

How Remedy Component Differs from Recalled Component: Replacement ORC modules are being developed that utilize the next generation of electrical architecture for ORC modules, including a revision to the positioning of the Safing Sensor. These next generation ORC modules do not have a history of IAD.
